1. After the class discussion about the things you have learned during your study about Environmental Monitoring in your class and at the Infinity Science Center, you will write about environmental monitoring. The RAFT activity above gives you the audience, topic, format, and role that you should use as you make this persuasive writing piece. Be creative, but be sure that you use your notes with all of the things you have learned about environmental monitoring. Look at the vocabulary that you have learned and try to incorporate that into your writing. Be sure to give evidence to any and all claims you make.
2. Use your notebook to brainstorm before beginning your writing.
3. Ask your teacher if you have questions.
